

CLEW WAS FURNISHED BY LETTER

The Operations of Daring Counterfeiters Broken Up By Secret Service Men

WERE OLD OFFENDERS

And Operated Over a Large Section of the United States—One of the Gang Made 400 $10 Gold Certificates.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM) Washington, Jan. 5.—The big part that a receipt for a registered letter played in the breaking up of a daring gang of counterfeiters which operated over a large section of the country came to light today at the treasury department when Chief Flynn of the secret service division gathered up the loose ends of the story. In consequence of the finding of the receipts in the possession of one of them, three men are under arrest. They proved to be old offenders and have long prison terms in prospect.

Several weeks ago Chief Flynn received word of the appearance of a new counterfeit $10 gold certificate, not particularly well executed but still good enough to have been accepted by a number of persons in Buffalo. A few days later the same sort of $10 certificate made its appearance in New York and then in rapid succession in St. Louis and Cincinnati.

The New York office of the secret service, after days of staking finally arrested a boy who had bills in his possession and who said they were given him to pass. The boy's description of the giver led to John Farnan, alias Frank Lasero, alias Farnicko Greco. In searching Farnan's rooms they discovered a receipt for a registered package addressed to the daughter of Edward Westcott, of Chicago, who had been in the tolls in 1908 and had served part of a 10 year sentence for counterfeiting.

While the New York office of the service department waited and finally arrested Farnan, Flynn sent a telegram to Chicago to look up Westcott. Confronted by agents, Westcott confessed. He said he had made 400 of the bills and that he had given half of them to Farnan, 100 to a man named Merrill and kept about 100 himself.

Merrill walked into the trap set for him a short time later and proved to be an old acquaintance of the service, known before as Otto Allen of Peoria. Merrill had been out on the road disposing of the bills and brought back with him only 47.

When Farnan was arrested he had 156 bills. If he had not sent the registered package to Chicago, Chief Flynn might yet be looking for the others in the gang and probably would have heard from a half dozen more cities.

BELIEVE TWO MORE BODIES ARE IN FIRE RUINS

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM) South Bend, Ind., Jan. 5.—Two girls, in addition to the bodies of three men already recovered, are believed to be dead in the ruins of the building that collapsed here late Saturday. The girls, whose names were given to the police by their parents today, have been missing from their homes since before the accident and are known to have been acquaintances of Delbert Hibbard of Niles, Michigan, who was killed, and Theodore Metzger, who was injured in the fall of the building.

Fire, which broke out in the ruins, delayed the search for the bodies today.

"MOTHER" JONES MAY RETURN TO STRIKE REGION

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM) Denver, Jan. 5.—Preparations were begun today by union officials for the return of "Mother" Mary Jones, to Trinidad, from which point she was deported by state troops yesterday. Adjutant General Chase, according to a report to Governor Ammons, has given orders in Trinidad and Walsenburg that her appearance in any portion of the strike region would result in imprisonment for her under the communication rule of the military authorities. Deportation, General Chase said, would not be attempted again as the action of the military authorities yesterday was merely to warn her that her presence in the strike region would not be tolerated.

Governor Ammons was of the opinion that General Chase considered he had good cause for his summary action in ordering "Mother" Jones' deportation and that he would, in all probability take no action in the matter. It was known that Adjutant General Chase from the first day of military rule in the strike region had declared that "Mother" Jones would not be permitted to visit among the strikers or to make speeches at any town directly affected by the strike. He took full responsibility for her forcible ejection and remarked:

"And if she comes back we will have a nice little party for her."

At union headquarters here there was indignation on the part of labor leaders who said it was an insult to women that "Mother" Jones should have been "manhandled" by troops, and insisted that she went to a hotel immediately upon reaching Denver.

Union leaders advised all strikers to arm themselves in order that they may resist the aggressions of the military authorities.

PART OF CREW DROWNED IN THE WRECK OF SHIP

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM) New York, Jan. 5.—The tank steamer in trouble off Sandy Hook yesterday was the Oklahoma and part of her crew perished. Eight were saved. This was the substance of a wireless message received here today.

Although several vessels were standing by the distressed tank liner, the Hamburg-American line freighter Bavaria, bound from Philadelphia to Boston, was the only one able to render assistance. She reported by wireless shortly after 9 o'clock this morning that she had been able to take off Captain Alfred Gunter, Chief Mate Bert Everson, Second Mate Dahle, Third Mate Carl Ekelunde, Operator William Davis, Boatman Christian Rasmussen, Quartermaster Hamilton Powell and Herman Erickson, the ship's carpenter.

No mention was made of the remainder of the crew, thirty in number. The Oklahoma was owned by the J. M. Guffey Petroleum company; was 2,750 tons net and 419 feet long. She left here Saturday for Port Arthur, Texas.

Although the disaster occurred less than 100 miles off Sandy Hook, wireless reports throughout the night were meagre and conflicting.

The Caribbean reported this forenoon that the crew had been rescued but did not give the name of the vessel.

In announcing the saving of part of the Oklahoma's crew, the Bavaria added that the vessel had not sunk entirely, but was partly submerged and drifting helplessly.

CIVIL SERVICE BOARD SELECTS A NEW CLERK

The civil service commission at a meeting held Saturday reorganized, selecting Attorney Henry C. Ashcraft as clerk, to succeed Ray Martin, who has served in that capacity for several years. I. M. Phillips was re-elected president of the board. The new appointee, Charles W. Kent, who succeeds E. Cary Norris, was sworn in and assumed his duties.

ADDRESSES THE MANUFACTURERS ASSOCIATION

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM) Chicago, Jan. 5.—Samuel Untermyer, counsel for the Pujo House committee, which investigated the so-called money trust, today outlined in a speech to the Illinois Manufacturers Association what he termed the necessary program to restore business conditions and confidence.

Leaders of big business must first purge their minds of prejudice and must subordinate personal desire for gain to the public good, he declared. Next in importance, he said, is that the laws under which business is conducted must be so plain that the business man can tell instinctively what constitutes a violation.

ROBBED CHURCH BOX.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM) Fremont, O., Jan. 5.—Burglars broke into St. Joseph's church here last night and robbed the collection box, but obtained only fifty cents, the box having been emptied by church authorities just before the robbery.

CAPT. WARDEN SELLS HOTEL AT RICHMOND

Announcement was made today of the sale of the Westcott Hotel at Richmond, Ind., owned by F. G. Warden of Newark, to Mr. Cunningham, who was at one time connected with the hotel. Mr. Warden purchased the hotel from Mr. Bayfield several years ago and has operated it since that time as one of the string of hotels under his management. The transfer of the property took place Saturday.

TERRIBLE HAVOC IS WROUGHT

Along New Jersey Coast by a Hurricane Which Swept in from Sea

SCORES MADE HOMELESS

Damage to Property Estimated at $2,000,000—Big Hotels and Hundreds of Cottages Tumbled Into the Ocean.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM) New York, Jan. 5.—The New Jersey and Long Island coasts, famed for their summer resorts, vacation homes and permanent fishing villages suffered a property loss estimated at from one to two million dollars in the hurricane that swept in from the sea shortly after daybreak Saturday morning and which did not begin to abate until early today.

Seabright, N. J., which was swept by a violent storm on Christmas night, when an estimated loss of half a million dollars resulted, was again the center of the gigantic waves. More than 100 persons were made homeless and the summer cottages of New York and Philadelphia business men tumbled into the sea, as did the Octagon Hotel, one of the largest summer resorts along the Jersey coast. The town with only $12,000 in its treasury to relieve the homeless, will appeal today for state and federal aid, in the construction of a sea wall to prevent a recurrence of the disaster.

While the greatest damage was done at Seabright, the New Jersey coast from Sandy Hook to Long Beach was lashed by waves and the bulkheads which for thirty years had protected the low beaches were ripped to pieces and tossed aside. Heavy losses are reported from Atlantic City where wires are down and part of the city in darkness last night. Longport, Edgewater, Cape May, Ventnor City and Margate City.

The south shore of Long Island from Montauk Point to Sea Gate was pounded by the waves all of Saturday night and all day yesterday. A score of bathing pavilions and hundreds of bath houses were washed away, cottages smashed and board walks hurled upon the beach. The heaviest damage is reported from Sea Gate, a fashionable cottage colony. Coney Island, Brighton Beach, Long Beach, Rockaway, Arverne and Montauk Point also were bombarded by the immense breakers. At Far Rockaway the storm reached the height of its vindictiveness yesterday afternoon. Several buildings were undermined and hurled into the ocean, including the Pier Theatre, a structure which seated 1500 persons. Only four piles remain standing of the foundation of this structure. The Kiely cottage, a fourteen room structure at Arverne was destroyed and the Avery bachelor apartments, containing 110 rooms, collapsed into a pile of kindling. None of these buildings was occupied.

Two hundred bath houses in Arverne were carried out to sea, the Vendome bath houses were undermined and are expected to collapse and Bibb's hotel, one of the largest structures on the Long Island coast is believed to be doomed.

Pleasure craft hauled on the shore for the winter were lifted up and dashed to pieces on the sand or carried out to sea.

For the first time in thirty years the waters of the Atlantic and the Great South Bay united at Amityville. The water completely covered the 300 foot strip of land at Hemlock Beach, carrying away a dozen bath houses.

In the face of a cold wind and unrelenting rain, thousands of New York City and all parts of New Jersey yesterday visited the coast towns, the largest number going to Seabright, where waters three and four feet deep ran through some of the streets, with the rise and fall of the tide. Armed guards were stationed in the ocean-swept streets to prevent stealing and protect property from souvenir hunters.

Shipping in New York harbor suffered when the storm that began on Saturday continued with the wind blowing at a terrific rate and gusts of driving rain, rain and snow. Some of the craft met with serious damage, six coal barges were sunk off Staten Island and shipping was practically at a standstill.

RESULT OF MONEY TRUST INVESTIGATION SEEN IN ACTION OF MORGAN FIRM MEMBERS

DECISION OF IMPORTANCE TO MILITIA

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM) Washington, Jan. 5.—A clean issue has been made between the war department and the National Guard Association of the United States upon the point of organization of the militia forces of the country. By direction of Secretary Garrison, Major General Wood, a chief of staff of the army, has issued a circular, No. 13, announcing the decision of Judge Advocate Crowder that the militia must conform in organization to the standards of the regular army, else they will be deprived of all federal financial support.

This decision is of the greatest importance to the militia as well as to the government because few, if any of the state national guard organizations are now able to meet the requirements and if the government is to be able to make use of the militia in an emergency, there must be a sweeping change in the state organizations or a radical modification of the existing militia law.

BURGLARS RAID MR. MINOR'S FLAT IN CLEVELAND

In a raid by burglars of the apartments of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Minor (Helen Kinney) of Cleveland, O., the former Newark people lost nearly $400 worth of silver, cut glass and jewelry, most of which were wedding presents to Mrs. Minor on the occasion of her marriage to Mr. Minor last summer. Besides the loss sustained by the Minor's, their guests, Mr. and Mrs. Hal Lauritsen of California, who are spending their honeymoon in the East, also lost jewelry and wedding presents valued at about the same amount.

Mr. and Mrs. Minor and their guests were absent from the flat for a short time Friday night attending a dinner party. Mr. Minor's mother, who occupies apartments in the same building, discovered the rear door of the Minor apartment open, and summoning the janitor, an investigation was made.

They found that the apartments had been completely ransacked and that a large quantity of valuable silver and jewelry was missing. Mr. and Mrs. Minor and Mr. and Mrs. Lauritsen were notified at once and hurried home to make a thorough investigation.

The city of Cleveland has been in a state of terror for the past month or more because of a wave of crime which has swept the city. Holdups, burglaries, assaults and robberies of every description have been nightly occurrences.

POLICE AFTER AUTOS WITH NO REAR LIGHTS

Police Chief Sheridan is after the owners of automobiles who persist in disregarding the state law which requires all automobiles to carry a light attached to the rear of the machine. In a statement to the Advocate Monday, the Chief said that a number of violations of this character have been reported in the past few days. Unless due regard is given to this provision of the law, some of the owners and drivers will find themselves in the custody of a policeman.

GENERALS TO REMAIN AT POSTS

State They Will Die Rather Than Desert Ojinaga Fortifications

POSITION IMPREGNABLE

Is Belief of Generals Castro and Salazar of the Federal Forces—Dead Soldiers are Lying Unburied.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM) Ojinaga, Jan. 5.—(Via Army Line to Marfa)—All doubt as to the intention of the northern division of the Mexican federal army to defeat the rebels or stay here until every soldier is dead was dispelled by General Francisco Castro, leader of the general federal troops and Gen. Salazar, commander of the federal volunteers in interviews at headquarters today.

Retreat of federal soldiers across the border to the United States territory would be induced only by some unexpected event, according to the two commanders, and even if all soldiers deserted, the generals say they would remain to die at their posts.

"It is thought that we came to Ojinaga so that if we were pursued by Villa's rebels we could step across the border," said General Castro, "such a plan was preposterous. Our forces evacuated Chihuahua because we had been isolated there. We had no way to obtain money to pay the soldiers who remained loyal to General Huerta, and we had no means of communicating with the war department at Mexico City. Our duty was to open a line of communication with the government and escort from Chihuahua City, citizens who feared they would be murdered by Villa. We selected Ojinaga because it is one of the best natural fortifications in the world. It also offered a source of communication with Mexico City as well as a port through which we might import provisions. Our position here is impregnable. We have ample stores of ammunition and more than fifty field pieces. Our losses have been greatly under those of the rebels."

Ortega, who came to attack us on orders from Villa thought his presence would cause us to flee to the United States. He was surprised when we resisted him. Our 4,000 loyal soldiers because of our superior fortifications, are able to resist 10,000 rebels and there are not that many rebels in the north."

General Castro's interview was given in a quaint plaster house on the plaza which has been under almost continuous fire for a week. As he talked, the cannonading and rattle of infantry of General Ortega's rebel army to the west of the village was audible.

A short time later bursting shrapnel was scattering a shower of bullets about the village.

Dead soldiers lying unburied in the outer trenches and hundreds of living soldiers on duty for a week without sleep were some of the scenes witnessed today in an inspection of this frontier village, 67 miles from a railroad which has become the battle ground of a possible final conflict for the possession of the north. So far neither side has made material headway except in the drain on the federal ammunition by the rebels. A few of the adobe houses used as federal fortresses have been demolished but the damage to fortifications made of dirt has been casual.

Despite assurances of General Castro and Salazar that the federalists had no design to flee to the United States in case of utter defeat, the United States army patrol did not slacken its precautions taken with that emergency. Already about 500 federal deserters have escaped and either have been disarmed or sent back, some having escaped into Texas.

FEDERATION TO CONSIDER THE COPPER STRIKE

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM) Chicago, Jan. 5.—A meeting of the executive committee of the American Federation of Labor at Washington at which the copper strike in Michigan will be considered will be called by Samuel Gompers, president of the organization.

This was learned from Charles H. Moyer, president of the Western Federation of Miners here today. He was asked concerning rumors that an attempt would be made to call a nation wide strike in sympathy with the Michigan and Colorado miners.

"Any such demand must be made on the American Federation of Labor," he replied, apparently changing his words carefully "if such a thing is considered it would be considered by that body."

Kosher Bread Bakers Strike At Cleveland

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM) Cleveland, Jan. 5.—A strike which threatened to call out all the Jewish bakers in Cleveland, was settled at noon today, after only a few hours' duration when the strikers' committee reached an agreement with Jacob Makoff, president of the Makoff Bakery company, where the strike occurred. Makoff is the largest baker of Kosher bread in the city. The strikers demanded that some of Makoff's employees be allowed to lay off so that other union bakers who are out of work might be employed. According to J. Vinksky, business agent of the union, the bakers obtained all their demands.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM) Cleveland, Jan. 5.—A strike of all Jewish bakers in the city threatened today as the result of 27 of their number, all union men, walking out at the shop of Jacob Makoff, Woodland avenue. Makoff is the largest baker of Kosher bread in the city, supplying fifty per cent of the trade of Orthodox Jews. The men quit without a word of warning. Makoff attributes the strike to his refusal Sunday to employ a baker recommended by others of his employees. There are eight Jewish baker shops in the city employing 65 bakers. They supply 50,000 orthodox Jews. If a general strike should result the consumers of Kosher bread would face a serious situation.

Sea Washes Up Body of Jessie E. McCann, Missing Young Girl

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM) New York, Jan. 5.—The body of Miss Jessie E. McCann, the young settlement worker, who disappeared a month ago and which was found on the beach at Coney Island yesterday, was taken to the home of her father in Flatbush today.

No like case since the disappearance of Dorothy Arnold three years ago has aroused public interest. The newspapers have devoted much space to her disappearance, public officials have worked zealously to locate her and moving picture theatres have thrown her picture on their screens in order to aid in the search for the missing girl. Many motion picture theatres yesterday announced on their screens the fact that the body had been recovered.

An autopsy held in the Coney Island morgue last night established positively that death was due to drowning. The family accepted the general view that the girl committed suicide or was drowned accidentally.

Miss McCann was 23 years old, pretty and popular with her friends.

KILLED BY TRAIN

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM) Lima, Jan. 5.—Because he did not notice the approach of a train at the Metcalfe street crossing of the Erie railroad here today, Wm. E. Beach, refinery employee, was struck and instantly killed on his way to work.

CAN FEDERAL LEAGUE COMMAND A SUFFICIENT NUMBER OF HIGH CLASS PLAYERS TO FURNISH HIGH GRADE BALL

Enormous Expense of Building New Plants Must Also Be Met and Cities Comprising League are Widely Separated—Schedule of the Local High School Basketball Team—Sport Notes.

(BY J. A. WARD.)

The baseball public all over this fair country of ours is crazy, at present and will continue not to be responsible for their actions for the next month, although this acute state of mental indisposition is nothing extraordinary for the baseball world, the extreme excitement of the sporting world has developed to a higher and more radical stage than ever before in recent times.

Ever since the baseball world was electrified by the recent announcement in New York by James A. Gilmore, President of the Federal League, that Joseph Tinker and Mordica Brown, had accepted offers from the outlaws to manage the St. Louis and Chicago teams of that league, a general discussion of the prospects for the success of the new organization has been current throughout the country.

The object of the Federals at the present seems to be an attempt to secure a few stars from the Majors, who will add materially in drawing crowds to the ball parks due to their past reputations made by their performances as members of the noted ball teams throughout the country. The name of Tinker and Brown will help to draw a large number to the games, which will be played in cities, where they are widely known, but they alone can not assure the financial success of the scheme, as it takes an almost inconceivable amount of money to support our large ball clubs of the present day.

The ultimate success of the new league hinges almost entirely upon, whether a sufficient number of high class players can be secured to furnish a high grade of ball, which will garner the attention of the public from the outset. If they can do this they will at least have the satisfaction of dividing the profits with their competitors.

But the initial expenses of putting the outlaws on their feet will be enormous and it will be a matter of conjecture whether they will be situated in a position to withstand the enormous debt, they have incurred to furnish high class ball. Last year, to be sure, the Federal operated throughout the year, but what kind of ball did they furnish? The quality of ball, furnished was decidedly inferior to that of the two major leagues or even that of the two minor leagues. This season the newcomers will have some added expenses that should cause them no little worry over their financial condition. New ball parks must be provided, of such a character as to permit them to stand comparison with the fine parks of the majors, guarantees that have been promised to cautious players, will have to be met, some of the teams have announced that they will go south to train, which will be a heavy item and numerous other expenses which will total a considerable sum.

The conditions are not similar today to those, which prevailed when the American and National leagues were fighting for supremacy. Then baseball was in its infancy, the large cities of the country had baseball only half of the time and there was a continual struggle between the opposing organizations, until an agreement was reached, which afforded continual ball for the cities due to the arrangement of the schedules. Today we have a greater problem for the Federals to solve than was solved by present organizations in their early days.

Otto Stifel, a very wealthy brewer of St. Louis is reported to be the "life insurance" of the Federals. He furnished large sums for the St. Louis team of last year and permitted his name to become publically connected with the club. It is noted about, that he has threatened to withdraw the services of his gold and at a meeting of the magnates in St. Louis recently he became disgusted with the situation of things and said he was through with the league. This caused supreme consternation among the directors who were present and it was only after some strong arm twisting that he was persuaded to withhold his resignation.

However if the outlaws succeed in bucking the American and National Leagues they will have accomplished something highly commendable.

B. B. Johnson expressed his belief recently that the new league would do more than anything else to revolutionize modern baseball and place it on a firmer foundation. He thinks that outside opposition would culminate in decreasing the salaries of players in the major which he believed at present are excessive.

The cities also of the Federals are widely separated; from Toledo to Kansas City will make a longer jump than in the majors. Also it was declared by the secretary of the New York Club that the Giants lost money on their long western hike last year; and if this be true of the giants, located in the best baseball city in the country, what will happen to the Feds, when these long trips are made?

Also it has been announced that the price of admission to games will be cut to twenty-five cents. The magnates, headed by James A. Gorman, believe that the lower rates will help to attract the people; this may be true to a limited extent but will only secure the attention of a certain small class, and nothing highly remunerative can be developed from such a plan.

There should be ample room in this country for three major leagues and it undoubtedly would add infinitely to the interest of the public, as the competition would be greater. The eyes of the fans will be centered, for the next two or three months on the Federals until the opening of the American and National leagues demand closer observation.

LOCAL BASKETBALL SQUAD WORKING AT THE ARMOY

The local high school basketball squad is working overtime every afternoon in the Armory. There is only one veteran in school, all the others having graduated last summer. Coach Millisor announces, that although the team will be green this season, they will give any team in the state a hard tussle for the decision. About twenty-five candidates are out and the coach expects to have some trouble in making a selection, as the men are fighting hard, and it will be hard to make a choice.

"Dutch" Summers, who was elected to captain the quintet this year, is not in school at present but it is expected that he will return in time for the opening contest. He played an exceptionally fine game at guard last of the Newark High basketball squad. He is having troubles developing a team this year as there is only one veteran in school, but there is plenty of good material to choose from.

year and will be needed this season to steady the green material, as well as to shoot a few baskets when the occasion demands. Summers received a slight injury during the football game with North High school at Columbus, which kept him out of the game for a short time, but he has fully recovered and is in fine fettle for the approaching basketball season.

The material, although it is green, has been making rapid strides in the past three weeks under the efficient instruction of Coach Millisor, who has had considerable experience with local basketball teams since he has been connected with the high school here. He has developed a number of successful teams and this year is not expected to prove an exception to his past record.

Games will be played in the Armory, which has been equipped for the purpose and will accommodate in the neighborhood of 500 spectators, if the occasion demands.

An excellent schedule has been arranged by Manager Fred Nehls with the assistance of Coach Millisor. The first game will be played here with the Alumni on next Friday evening.

The schedule:
Jan. 5.—Alumni.
Jan. 16.—Mt. Vernon at Mt. Vernon.
Jan. 23.—Lancaster at Newark.
Jan. 30.—Delaware at Delaware.
Feb. 6.—Mt. Vernon at Newark.
Feb. 12.—Lancaster at Lancaster.
Feb. 20.—Lancaster at Newark.
Feb. 27.—Zanesville at Zanesville.
March 6 and 7.—State Tournament at Delaware.

COLUMBUS TEAM WILL PLAY THE DENISON BOYS

Granville, Jan. 5.—The fast Capital University squad of Columbus will visit the local basketball season at Granville Thursday evening, with Coach Livingston's fast aggregation, which is generally conceded by those in close touch with athletics at Denison, to be the finest combination that has ever represented the Baptist institution in the indoor game. The most successful season that Denison has ever experienced is expected and the students are anxiously awaiting the opening of the season.

Capital U., although they are not very prominent in other major branches of college sport, always have had the reputation of developing a fine basketball team. The Columbus quintet has played a few of the local squads in the city with satisfactory results, and will have a slight advantage over Denison, who has not played a game with an outside team. As Capital is not in the Ohio Conference, this game will not count in figuring the percentage at the end of the year. It was thought best by Coach Livingston that the Baptists should have an outside game before the certain raiser was played with Wooster at Wooster on Saturday evening. This will give the team a chance to correct a few minor faults and to secure better passwork before the first conference contest with Wooster.

SPORT NOTES.

The annexation of the Federal League of two more major stars was reported in New York Friday by President Gilmore. Max Carey and Claude Hendrix have affixed their signatures to Baltimore contracts, if the latest reports are true.

I have this information from Ned Hamilton, part owner of the Baltimore franchise and I am sure that it is true," declared Gilmore in an interview. It is also reported that Knabe has signed a Federal contract.

Clark Griffith disagrees with Ban Johnson on the subject that there should be a rule, which would prohibit a pitcher from intentionally walking the batter if he happens to be a dangerous hitter up with a man on base. It is very difficult to see any favorable features to Mr. Johnson's idea, and what is more if such a rule would be made it would take some of the strategy out of the game and cause the great American sport to become more or less mechanical.

Great rejoicing is being evinced by the golf enthusiasts throughout the country since it has been announced that the cost of the elusive little golf ball has been reduced from $9 to $1.50 a dozen. The announcement was made by Robert Watson, president of the United States Golf association after a confab with a leading manufacturer. This should assure the re-election of Mr. Watson by a unanimous vote when the time comes.

TRAP SHOOTERS TO HAVE CRACK AT CLAY BIRDS

Trap shooting at clay birds has been rather dormant for several years but Dan Coffman proposes to revive it and has arranged for a shoot in the West End in the vicinity of the Blair Auto truck company along the Pennys tracks, Thursday beginning at 9 a. m. and lasting all day. To make it interesting a number of turkeys, ducks and chickens will be awarded to those making the best scores. Trap shooters are cleaning and oiling their guns and no doubt a large crowd will be present to enjoy the shoot.

Father of Parcel Post Favors Government Telegraph Lines Now

David J. Lewis, member of the House of Representatives from Maryland, has introduced a bill for the government ownership of telegraph and telephone lines. He was the author of the bill for the parcels post, which now works successfully.

This action was taken by the Maryland congressman following the announcement by Attorney-General McReynolds that an arrangement had been made by him and officials of the American Telephone company to give up its stock in the Western Union company. The ownership of Western Union stock by the telephone company was believed to be in violation of the Sherman act, but the attorney general and President Wilson undertook a peaceful settlement in preference to a fight in the courts.

The bill of Mr. Lewis is in line with the report of Postmaster-General Frieson, who advocated government ownership of the wires. Dispatches from Washington, however, indicate that the President will not endorse the recommendations of his cabinet officer.

The Sergeant's Promotion

By M. QUAD

Copyright, 1913, by Associated Literary Press

It may have been known among the officers that she was coming—a blue eyed, fair haired girl of eighteen from the east named Miss Bell—but the first we heard of it was when we went to the depot as an escort.

Miss Bell was a regular chatterbox. She couldn't understand the wide gulf separating officer from private, but in ignorance thought a soldier was a soldier, no matter whether he carried a saber or a sword. Being left alone with Sergeant Larkins for a few moments while the captain sent off a telegram for her, she did not hesitate to chatter away as if they had been formally introduced and had met before, and this action of hers was to have a strange bearing on after events. After a couple of days we noticed a change in Sergeant Larkins. He was a young man of thirty, well educated and evidently something above the common, and there were rumors that his father was a wealthy New Yorker and that the son had entered the army because of a quarrel between them. I repeat that we saw a change in him, and pretty soon it came to us that he had fallen in love with Miss Bell at first sight.

Miss Bell had been at the fort about a month when the Sioux on the reservation began to make trouble, and the Indian police reported that a number of them had broken away and were marauding in the foothills. Such stories were always about, and no credence was given them until some deed of violence had been committed. It had been planned by half a dozen officers and their wives to hold a picnic at the falls of Buffalo river, and so Sergeant Larkins and the same half dozen of us were again detailed. It was twelve miles to the falls, and the picknickers were loaded into two ambulances. There were five officers, seven ladies and three children, and the escort was ordered to keep them in sight.

From the first Sergeant Larkins sat apart from us and seemed moody and taciturn. There was no question but that jealousy was at work, and he hadn't the strength of mind to throw it off and realize the situation. We had many a wink and laugh at his expense, and yet we felt to pity him. We had been told to go up for the empty baskets at 4 o'clock, and the hour had just gone 2 when a fusillade of revolver shots, followed by the warwhoops of Indians, jumped every man to his feet. Ten seconds later we were following the sergeant up the gorge, and in five minutes we came upon the women and children hidden away among the rocks and stricken with terror. A quarter of an hour before the five officers had caught sight of a cub bear on the other side of the falls. They had gone up stream a few rods and crossed on a log, but the shots we heard had not been fired at the cub. A band of twenty or more renegades who were hiding in the foothills had discovered the picknickers half an hour before and were planning a wipeout of every soul when the officers moved. They played right into the hands of the red men. In their chase after the cub they left the falls half a mile behind, and as they came slowly back they found the Indians confronting them. There was but one course—to make a dash for it—and it was gallantly done. The Indians were too strong and too well posted, however. A lieutenant was dropped dead in his tracks and a major and a captain wounded.

The first move on our part, seeing that the women and children were safe, was to secure cover behind the boulders and open fire on the Indians. They had counted on a sure thing, and their yells of rage when they knew of our presence were loud and long. We had them between two fires, and yet so well were they sheltered that they had no means of knowing that they had only two un wounded men in front of them, armed with revolvers. The women told us about the officers going away in a body; but, although there had been severe firing, we hoped none of them had been hit. After we had fired three or four rounds apiece the sergeant called out to know how it was with the officers. The major answered, giving the names of the killed and wounded. Three of the five were behind the same boulder and could use their revolvers. It was a curious position in which the three parties were placed, but as the Indians were in such a strong force they could defend their front and rear at the same time. If we left cover to cross the creek we would be exposed to certain death. If they left cover to attack the camp we had only to shoot them down. What we feared was that they would get out of the trap by dashing upon the officers in front or work to the left and finally take them in the rear.

We solved the difficulty by sending one man back to the post for reinforcements, while we held the Indians with our fire. When the new troops came up we drove the Indians off and got the women and children and wounded officers safely out of it. It was generally conceded that Sergeant Larkins had put up the best fight of any one officer or enlisted man. The colonel recommended him for promotion, and then the secret came out that he had not only got a commission, but had got Miss Bell. But the worst part of it was that Larkins was worth half a million in his own right.

One thing about her that it is never selling like hot cakes. It may have been known among the officers that she was coming—a blue eyed, fair haired girl of eighteen from the east named Miss Bell—but the first we heard of it was when we went to the depot as an escort.

CONFEDERATE "VET" WRITES OF OLD FLAG

David Davis of Conesville, member of the "Fighting 76th" has received a letter from David M. Scott, Commander of Camp Jones 317, United Confederate Veterans at Salem, Ala., in reference to the regimental banner of the 76th Regiment which is to be returned to the survivors of the regiment within a short time.

It is suggested that the 76th boys send a committee to the general reunion at Jacksonville, Fla., in April and May of this year, where the banner will be returned with fitting ceremony.

Mr. Davis forwarded the letter to Marion Chrisman of Newark, president of the 76th organization. The letter from Mr. Scott follows:

David Davis, Conesville, Ohio.
My Dear Sir and Comrade:
Your interesting letter of December 26th was received on yesterday and was read with a great deal of interest. You have the facts down exactly right as to the date and circumstances surrounding the capture of the flag. Your regiment was no doubt before me on many occasions from Chancellorsville down to Atlanta and in fights from Dalton to Atlanta, but I do not remember anything particularly about the capture of the 76th Ohio state flag, but I remember what good fighters the 15th Army Corps were.

Yes, I remember how we used to meet between the lines and transact business of "reciprocity", as I have swapped many a plug of tobacco for good old genuine coffee, which was a rare luxury with the "Johnnies" at the front and even with the home folks in the rear, as our coffee consisted of corn bread and crust and parched corn mostly.

It is the purpose of our Camp to have this flag returned to the survivors of the 76th Ohio with some ceremony fitting the occasion, and I suggested to Governor Cox that it would be a lesson of patriotism and show that the war is over with the men who smelled gun powder at the front of the battle. We "Johnnies" are back in the Union and we are just as loyal to the stars and stripes as we were to the stars and bars in the '60s.

As an illustration of this fact, recently one of our "unreconstructed" members, who is not a regular attendant at our Camp meetings, attended a meeting and rose in his seat addressing the Commander, stating that he felt that he was back in the Union once more and was thoroughly "reconstructed", and offered a resolution that our Camp buy a fine United States flag and have it hung in our hall by the side of our Confederate flag, and this resolution was adopted by unanimous vote, and we now sit under the stars and stripes at our meetings as well as the Confederate flag.

I will be glad if you will take up the matter and can arrange for the return of this flag to the survivors of the 76th Ohio Volunteers and let it be a feature at our general Reunion to be held at Jacksonville, Florida the latter part of April and the first of May next.

The flag was captured by 1st Arkansas Infantry of Claiborne, Miss., Hardee's Corps, Confederate States Army in front of Taylor's Ridge, Ringgold Gap, Ga., and no doubt much valuable blood was spilled and splendid lives lost in this engagement.

I have written to the Commander of the Arkansas Division of Confederate Veterans notifying him that I would be glad for him to select a committee from the first Arkansas regiment to attend the coming Reunion and have them present it to the survivors of the 76th Ohio, and I will be glad to have your cooperation in this end. I have established the identity of the flag through the date of its capture and by whom captured, and you have identified yourself thoroughly as being a member of the gallant regiment, and I would be glad if you could be one of the committee to meet us at the Reunion and receive this flag.

The reason it has not been returned before is it was in the possession of Colonel Royce, who was a member of General Hardee's staff during the war and he removed to France many years ago, leaving the two captured flags in the hand of his attorney in Selma, and it was preserved as a relic for more than fifty years. Colonel Royce recently died in Paris and his widow requested Mr. Satterfield, their attorney to turn the flags over to our Camp and have them returned to the proper custodian.

I have them carefully preserved in a fire proof building, as I am Postmaster at Selma and they will be carefully preserved and I shall feel honored in taking part in the return of this flag to the gallant members of the 76th Ohio Regiment.

Very truly yours, David M. Scott, Commander Camp Jones, No. 317, U. C. V., Asst. General Ala. Div. U. C. V.

BIG EATERS GET KIDNEY TROUBLE

Take a glass of Salts before Breakfast if your Back hurts or Bladder Bothers you.

The American men and women must guard constantly against Kidney trouble, because we eat too much and all our food is rich. Our blood is filled with uric acid which the kidneys strive to filter out, they weaken from overwork, become sluggish; the eliminative tissues clog and the result is Kidney trouble, bladder weakness and a general decline in health.

When your kidneys feel like lumps of lead; your back hurts or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment or you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night; if you suffer with sick headache or dizzy, nervous spells, a pain on stomach, or you have rheumatism when the weather is bad get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a teaspoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to cleanse and stimulate clogged kidneys; to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water beverage, and belongs in every home, because nobody can make a mistake by having a good kidney flushing any time.

Rapid Growth of Social Center Idea is Shown by Report

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—The steady growth of the social center idea in this country is revealed in a report just compiled by Clarence A. Perry of the Russell Sage foundation, New York. City in places where the movement has already started, it is shown that the rate of growth is much higher than the rate at which it spread in new localities. Seventy-one cities had, during the winter of 1912-13, said workers against 44 the previous season and the amount expended for maintenance of school centers grew from $128,375 in 1912 to $244,775 in 1913. There now are more than 3,000 paid volunteer workers in the movement.

A TRIP TO THE MOON.

One Scientist at Least Thinks It Will Be Made Some Day.

Jules Verne was a scientific man, and many regard his fiction stories of submarine and aerial flight—which at the time they were published seemed wild dreams—as a serious prediction of what he believed would be accomplished. As a matter of fact he did live to see the submarine an accepted arm of two navies, and the Wrights were well advanced toward success before he died. There remains his "Trip to the Moon," which seems absolutely impossible of accomplishment. Nevertheless, there are scientific men who dare to reach out into space and chart a pathway to other worlds.

One of these, M. Ernest Archdeacon, who ranks among the foremost authorities in France on aviation, predicts our present aviation machines, which at best could not encircle the earth in less than eight days, will be abandoned for air craft which will circle the globe in sixty-six minutes. "All the peoples of the earth will then form a sole and single nation."

Man, insatiable in his ambition, is contemplating interplanetary flight, and M. Esnault Pelterie believes the vehicle will be a self-propelled rocket (Verne again) with a speed of seven miles a second, which is estimated to be sufficient velocity to carry the projectile beyond the zone of terrestrial attraction. At this rate the moon would be reached in less than two hours—assuming of course the vehicle was not melted long before by the heat generated in its terrific flight. Radium is suggested as a possible motive power.

The idea of interplanetary flight from our present viewpoint seems of course impossible. However, the submarine was 400 years in developing. M. Archdeacon says, "I am convinced that in a certain number of centuries the inhabitants of all the planets will have made acquaintance with one another, and I foresee the day when a world interplanetary congress will be held."—H. Something Wrong

By F. A. MITCHEL

"The country's going to the domination bowwows!"

"What's the matter now, old man?"

"Why, this income tax is an outrage. They allow a married man a $4,000 exception and a single man only $3,000. We poor bachelors are doomed to live alone. We have no home, no wife, no children. Our expenses are necessarily higher than those of a married man, who doesn't have to belong to a club and spend the money that is an essential of the bachelor state. Notwithstanding all this, I, who have an income of $4,000, have to pay a tax on $1,000, while the married man with the same amount goes scot free. It's an outrage."

"If you prefer the married man's place, why don't you take a wife?"

"By Jove, I believe I'll do it! Just to get ahead of the government."

This dialogue took place between Dick Ryerson and Arnold Thurston, bachelors, in the Calumet club one morning after the first publication of the terms of the income tax. The complainant, Ryerson, though his income was all expended on himself, had a hard time making ends meet, and any reduction of the amount whatever was liable to upset his financial calculations.

"In order to beat 'em," Thurston replied to the last remark, "you'll have to marry a girl without more than $1,000 a year. Anything over that will be combined with your own income and must pay a tax."

"I don't suppose the only girl in the world I want has a cent of income. I can write her a note asking her about it before I propose."

"That would be a brilliant scheme. She would probably write back that if you wanted her on a money consideration you could look elsewhere for a wife."

"I won't put it that way. I'll tell her that I don't wish my wife to have any income at all, that she is to rely on me for everything, and if she has no money it's a proposal; if she has, it isn't."

"Oh, yes! I see," doubtfully.

"Well, what do you see?"

"Fireworks."

"When an idea gets into the head of a confirmed bachelor, especially as to matrimony, no one can tell just what he will do. Mr. Ryerson did just what he had said he would do and without the expected fireworks. Miss Engleheart, to whom he made the singular conditional proposition, was rather pleased with it. She wrote the proposer that since she came within his conditions—conditions which she considered worthy of a man—she accepted his proposition.

The day after he received the acceptance he met his friend Thurston again at the club.

"I'm going to beat the government," said Ryerson.

"How?" asked Thurston, somewhat astonished.

"I'm going to marry a girl who has nothing and pay no tax."

"Come off! You're goring me."

"Fact." And he gave Thurston Miss Engleheart's letter to read. The latter scratched his head.

"Dick," he said presently, "there's something wrong somewhere in this case."

"Why do you think so?"

"Well, your proposition is so unheard of that I can't conceive of any woman taking it seriously."

Ryerson smiled.

"I'm afraid you're up a tree."

"What can I do?"

"Crawfish."

"I won't do that. Fact is I don't want to do that. I'm in it, and I'm going to stay in it."

"Well, it may come out all right. There's one thing I can say to you to encourage you. It has seemed to me that any girl receiving such a proposition—that is, your making any conditions whatever—would send it back with a stick of dynamite attached. But I've observed this about women: They generally do just the opposite from what one expects them to do."

"This is encouraging, isn't it?"

"It's all the comfort I can give you."

Ryerson stared on it, as he said he would, and after a brief engagement he was married. He remained away from his club during the honeymoon, but as soon as it had passed he made his appearance there. The first man he met was Thurston.

"Well, old chap!" said the latter, "so you've beaten the government."

Ryerson's face fell. "Do you remember what you said about there being something wrong?"

"Yes, but I hope I was wrong."

"And that you said a woman would always do what you expected her not to do?"

"Why, yes; I remember that too. I hope nothing has occurred to make you regret."

"Oh, no; nothing like that, but I didn't beat the government after all."

"You didn't beat the government after all?"

"No, the government beat me."

"How?"

"Why, the woman I married concealed the fact that she had an income of $3,000 a year. As a bachelor I would have paid a tax on $1,000, and now as a married man I'll have to pay on $2,000."

"A dead swindle. Isn't it?"

"You bet; you were right after all. The wine's on me. Come, let's go into the cafe."

CORN SHOW IN ARCADE WILL OPEN TUESDAY

With more than half a hundred entries listed and others given until Tuesday noon—to come in with their displays, the first annual corn show in the Arcade, under auspices of the Licking County Crop Improvement society, promises to be a success. The show opens Tuesday noon, and formally closes Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock, although most of the displays are expected to remain until Saturday evening.

James W. Cook, expert judge and breeder of grain and farm products, Forest, O., has been appointed to judge the exhibits and distribute the awards. Prizes totaling a value of $250, of which about $175 will be in cash, are to be given for the best exhibits of corn grown in Licking county. All display corn will be returned to the owner after the show. Judging will occupy Wednesday and Thursday.

Tables were strung through the center of the Arcade Monday forenoon from Fourth street to a point beyond the Annex intersection, and it was expected by Secretary W. C. Metz that some of the displays would be placed Monday evening.

Entries were still coming in Monday afternoon, showing that farmers all over the county have become interested in the corn show. Exhibits will represent every part of the county.

LADIES! DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

Look years younger! Use Grandmother's recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur and nobody will know.

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded gray hair to its natural color dates back to grandmother's time. She used to keep her hair beautifully dark, glossy and abundant. Whenever her hair fell out or took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect.

But brewing at home is messy and out-of-date. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for a 50-cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," you will get this famous old recipe which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair and is splendid for dandruff, dry, feverish, itchy scalp and falling hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, it becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and abundant. Agents Hall's drug store.

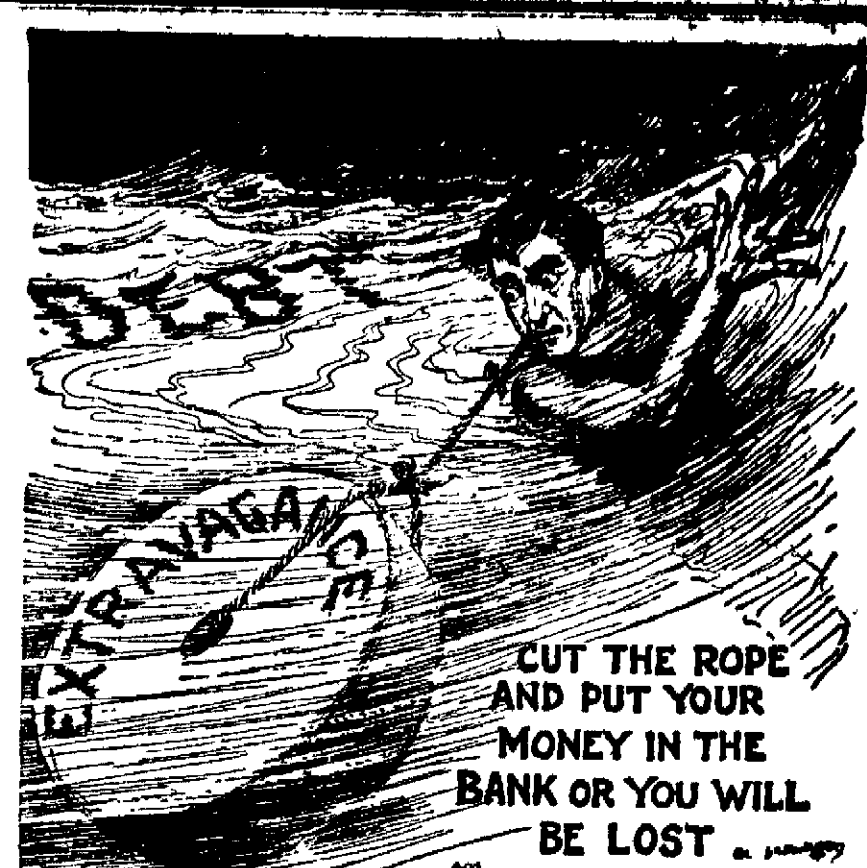

VINNING'S VOICE DIDN'T SUIT; HE WAS THROW OUT

A record on the police blotter, bearing the information that Charles Vinning was removed from the office of Dr. Rank to his home, is the only public record of the fact that his efforts as a vocalist are unsatisfactory. The information given the officers furnishes additional facts to bear out this statement but there is no testimony as to who were the judges of his vocal efforts.

Vinning told the officers that he and a companion, attracted by singing from a house in Sprague street, "Oklahoma," entered to join in the music. They had not been there long before their hosts landed forcibly upon the pair and ejected them from the temple of music. Vinning didn't show as much ability as a singer as he did as a singer and as a consequence he was roughly handled. He was compelled to seek the damage done by the irate devotees of Opheus. Vinning's companion escaped and as far as is known, he suffered no injuries in the fracas.

PROBLEMS OF CIVILIZATION.

We Are Too Stupid and Narrow to Solve Them, Says Shaw.

We are a stupid people, and we are a bad looking people. We are ugly, we have narrow minds and we have bad manners. A great deal of that is due to the effect of being brought up in a society of inequality. I know perfectly well what happened to myself.

I can remember one of my earliest experiences in life was my father finding me playing with a certain little boy in the street and telling me I was not to play with that little boy, giving me to understand that he was a very inferior and objectionable kind of little boy. I had not found him so. I asked my father, "Why?" He said, "His father keeps a shop." I said to my father, "Well, but you keep a mill." Therefore my father pointed out to me that he sold things wholesale and that this little boy's father sold things retail, and that consequently there was between me and that boy a gulf which could never be respectably bridged.

When you are brought up, as you inevitably are in a society like ours, with that sort of blasphemy being continually dinned into your ears; when you are taught to be unsocial at every point and brought up to be unsocial, then any little chance that your natural endowments at your birth may have left you of being able to grapple with the enormous problems of our modern civilization—problems that demand from you the largest scope of mind, the most unhesitating magnanimity, the most sacred recognition of your spiritual and human equality with every person in the nation—is utterly destroyed. That is why I doubt whether these problems can be solved by us, brought up in that way. To solve them you need a new sort of human being.—George Bernard Shaw in the Metropolitan Magazine.

One swallow doesn't make a summer, but too many swallows will make a fellow feel like a bird.

The Tuesday Afternoon Euchre club will not meet with Mrs. Wilhelm this week, but will be postponed for two weeks.

The Independent Thimble club of Newark Hive, No. 455, will meet with Mrs. Olive Drumm, 399 Eastern avenue Wednesday afternoon.

Of the many delightful meetings of the year held by the Review club none was more thoroughly enjoyed than that of Saturday, when Mrs. Edith Wynne Thomas of Chicago, redeemed a promise made when she was a member of the club, to appear before the organization in a musical. The Review club arranged for the program to be given in the First Presbyterian church and extended an invitation to the City Federation of Women's clubs to attend. Mrs. Thomas formerly resided in Newark and she was greeted by a large assembly of club women and friends. Her wonderfully sympathetic lyric soprano voice, if possible, shows even greater value, and beauty since her residence in Chicago, and the program was delightfully varied and the numbers showed careful selection. The program follows:

- 1 At Dawning—Cadman
- The Merry Lark—Nevin
- Rose Ryme—Salter
- 2 Mavourneen—Lang
- Irish Folk Song—Footie
- My Laddie—Thayer
- 3 Ballad of the Master and the Trees—Chadwick
- 4 I Wonder if Even the Rose—Salter
- The Captain—Rogers
- The Duckling—Gaynor
- The Chrysanthemum—Salter
- 5 To You—Speaks
- Saida—Watkins
- The Rainbow—Voorhis
- The Rosary

Mrs. Thomas was accompanied to Newark by her sister, Miss Esther Roberts of Columbus. At the conclusion of the program Mrs. Thomas and her sister were entertained at dinner by the club in the church.

The members of the Tuesday Afternoon Bridge club will be entertained at the home of Mrs. W. H. Dennis in Hudson avenue on the club day of this week.

The Ladies Home and Foreign Missionary society of the Woodside Presbyterian church, met with Mrs. E. J. Pratt of Woods avenue, Friday afternoon, with fourteen members and twelve visitors present.

Mrs. Billingslea and the Busy Bee Mission band of the First Presbyterian church were present; also Mrs. Bates and Mr. Wilfred Jones, a student from Wooster, whose parents, Rev. and Mrs. Grant Jones, are missionaries in India.

Mr. Jones gave a very interesting and instructive talk on the people of India, their ways of living, education, conditions, etc. His talk was enjoyed and appreciated by all.

The society adjourned to meet with Mrs. Homer Wells the first Friday in February.

Mrs. Harry MacKenzie entertained a few friends with an informal dinner party at her home in North Fourth street on Sunday evening. The centerpiece and favors were of cut flowers.

The members of the Photosean club attended the musicale given by the Review club on Saturday afternoon and in the evening a business meeting was held at the home of Mrs. P. H. Cosner in West Church street. After business discussion the following officers of the club were elected for the ensuing year:

President—Mrs. P. H. Cosner.

First Vice President—Mrs. O. M. Burke.

Second Vice President—Miss Thora McDonagh.

Recording secretary—Miss Mame Cagney.

Corresponding secretary—Miss Elizabeth King.

Treasurer—Mrs. Thos. Coulter.

Librarian—Mrs. L. R. James.

The executive committee will be elected at a later meeting.

GOT HER THREE WISHES.

But They Sank Her Beneath the Waves of the Social Sea.

The late King Edward of England, while a very gracious and genial man, could be very severe with those who overstepped the rules of etiquette, and Frederick Townsend Martin in "Things I Remember" recalls what happened to an American girl who offended him when he was Prince of Wales.

At a society bazaar the winner of a lucky lottery ticket had the privilege of asking three wishes from the Prince of Wales, and fate favored a young lady from the United States.

"What is your first wish?" asked H. R. H.

"Oh, sir; it is to have your photograph."

The prince beamed. "Granted," he said. "And the next?"

"I would like you to bring me the photograph in person."

H. R. H. hesitated, frowned and, recovering from his surprise, answered:

"That shall be done. Now, what is the last?"

Never was the truth of the saying so apparent that "fools rush in where angels fear to tread." The young lady disregarded the warning looks from those around her. "The third wish, sir, is that you will present me to the Princess of Wales."

The prince looked at her coldly.

"Granted," he said and walked away without a word. The silly girl realized that she had stung against society, which never forgives fools. She made a hasty exit, and the waves of the social sea closed over her forever.

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

It's Easy—If You Know Dr. Edward's Olive Tablets.

The secret of keeping young—is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—simples—a bilious look in your face—full eyes with no sparkle.

Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver. Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, are getting in their action, yet always effective. They bring about that exuberance of spirit, that natural buoyancy which should be enjoyed by everyone, by 'toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities. You will know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets by their olive color. 10c and 25c per box. The Olive Tablet Company, Columbus, Ohio. All druggists.

LITTLE DISCUSSIONS OF LOVE AND MARRIAGE

BY BARBARA BOYD

Extravagant Wives.

"There isn't much fun in marriage when it descends into a marathon between the husband and the bill collector, is there?" reflected the Bachelor Girl.

"I should say not," agreed the Bachelor. "But why should it?"

"I don't know any reason why it should. But there are many reasons why it does. But to me one of the saddest reasons is an extravagant or thoughtless wife."

"A friend of mine has that sort," said the Bachelor reminiscently.

"There are a good many of them," observed the Bachelor Girl. "Many a husband drudges away from morning until night, year in and year out, simply to pay bills. I know one such man. He works early and late, and often on Sundays. He never takes a vacation. And the look on his face when the first of the month comes round and the bills pour in is pathetic. It is full of dread and apprehension; for he never knows what wild piece of extravagance his wife may have committed, nor what reckless amounts he may be held responsible for."

"Why doesn't he stop it?" inquired the Bachelor.

"He can't. You couldn't make her believe she is extravagant. She thinks she has a right to what she wants. And she always wants the best, and never denies herself a thing. And she seems absolutely blind to the fact that he denies himself nearly everything he wants, and works unceasingly from morning until night simply to supply her wants and whims. Everybody else sees it. But she doesn't. She isn't a bad sort, you know. She is good-hearted and jolly, a good housekeeper, and all that. But she is just absorbed in herself."

"Why doesn't he call her attention to a few plain facts?"

"It would only precipitate a quarrel. The one thing that would wake her up, I guess, would be for him to die and she have to turn in and earn her own living. Maybe then she'd realize all that he does for her."

"That would be pretty tough on him," reflected the Bachelor.

"I don't know but that he would be as well off," observed the Bachelor Girl. "I don't see that he gets much out of life but apprehension and worry. And he has nothing to look forward to. If he ever does cherish a secret hope of getting ahead a little, and of having something to his credit in the bank, she seems to sense it, and immediately thinks of some expensive thing she wants for herself or the house."

"That sort of married life doesn't look very enticing," admitted the Bachelor. "But surely there must be a remedy."

"I doubt it, unless they live in hot water all the time. It might have been prevented if, at the start, he had put her on an allowance,—though I doubt if he could have held her to it,—or not let her know how much he earned. But lots of men, especially right at the beginning of married life, take to do anything of this sort. It seems mean. The root of the trouble is that she is selfish without realizing it. If she could just put herself in his shoes for awhile, and live his monotonous days, and go without all the things he does, maybe she might be a little more considerate of him. But I don't believe she would do this. She is too well satisfied with herself and the way she runs things."

"Poor fellow!" said the Bachelor sympathetically. "He certainly got raked up as a beast of burden when he got married, didn't he?"

"He sure did," agreed the Bachelor Girl. "He's resigned now and plods along without saying anything. I certainly admire his spunk and grit though."

"Do you?" asked the Bachelor, studying her. "I don't think you are extravagant though."

But the Bachelor Girl refused to commit herself.

Present Styles a Victory For Satan; Many Drunkards Good Men

By the Rev. Dr. LEN G. BROUGHTON of London

If I were the devil, certainly I would not enjoy anything so much as a walk up Broadway or Fifth avenue, New York, looking at the alt skirts and other new styles of women's dress.

Until very recently I never knew a woman who was not interested in jewels and clothes. But now they have lost their interest in clothing and are going around the streets with as few clothes as possible and making those few as short and transparent as possible.

THESE THINGS LEAD ONLY TO THE DEVIL. THEY TEMPT MEN, AND NO WOMAN EVER FELL WITHOUT THE AID OF A MAN.

There are a lot of good men, just as good as you can show me, who get drunk. What you Christians ought to do is to go to them and sit up with them and pray with them. Then they would quit drinking.

Good Printing is as essential to your business as a clean store. Let us show you

Here's to You and Me and POSTUM

—the pure food-drink that meets the desire of young and old for a palatable table beverage which is wholesome and satisfying.

Postum is made only of clean, hard wheat and a small per cent. of New Orleans molasses. It tastes much like the higher grades of Java, but is absolutely free from caffeine, the drug in coffee, which causes so much headache, sleeplessness, indigestion, nervousness and heart trouble.

Coffee drinkers can learn something of value by a 10 days' change to Postum.

Then, as the coffee poison is eliminated from the system, the brain works clear, nerves become steady, and the gradual return of peace and comfort will show plainly

"There's a Reason" for POSTUM

Postum now comes in two forms:

Regular Postum—must be boiled 15 to 20 minutes.

Instant Postum—is a soluble powder. A scant teaspoonful stirred in a cup of hot water dissolves instantly.

The convenience of Instant Postum is apparent. But, when prepared according to directions, both kinds are exactly the same. The cost per cup is about equal.

—Grocers everywhere sell both kinds.

A Pure Heart is A Pure Fountain

We Are Learning Power of the Will, Says Pastor Russell.

STARTING NEW YEAR RIGHT.

Pure Thoughts—Two Ways of Fighting Vice, Sin—We Must Copy God's Methods—Impurity Is Devouring Our Race—Its Ramifications—In Business, In Religion, In Society, In Politics, In the Home, Everywhere—The Fight Against Impurity—Its Progress—Its Soldiers—Its Efforts and Results, Present and Future.

(PASTOR RUSSELL)

New York, January 4.—Pastor Russell, of the City Temple Congregation, took for his text today St. Paul's words: "Whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are good, if there be any virtue, and if there be any praise, think on these things." (Philippians 4:8.) He said:

More and more we are learning the power of the will. "As a man thinketh in his heart, so is he." The heart represents the real man, whom we are not always able to properly recognize, weigh and value. God looks upon the heart, and each man should carefully scrutinize his own heart—especially all who desire to be pleasing in God's sight. But the Apostle uses the word think as representing another process of the mind, the will. We must do some thinking in order to will properly, wisely. As a man thinketh, he will gradually come to do, because the mind, the thoughts, give us our ideals for the activities of life, just as the architect's drawings give ideals in respect to the construction of a house.

The man who does not think has not properly begun to live. The man who thinks upon wrong things, who has set before his mind wrong ideals, is worse off than the man who has no ideals. We must admit the truth of the Apostle's proposition that we should think upon the good, the honorable, the just, the pure, the true, the loving things, if we would have our lives just, loving, true, noble, pure, lovely and lovable.

I have chosen this subject, not because I believe that this congregation is devoid of good ideals, but because we are apt to let slip some of those noble ideals which we set before our minds and which God has set before us through the words of Jesus and the Apostles and others of His servants. We need to set our affections on that which is just, noble, true and good—the Heavenly things of Divine approval; and as they slip away to earthly ideals, we are to set them afresh. The opening of a new year is a time especially favorable for setting our heart affections upon things that are just, noble, pure, lovely, the time for calling to our aid all the will power and resolutions which we can command. Thus we make character.

Moreover, we are all preaching, by our words in public and in private, and by our actions. Our neighbors and our friends are influenced more by our actions than by our words if the two are in conflict. As God's people we are all to be ministers of the Truth, ambassadors for God, to show forth His praises as we have opportunity. Our ordination, our authorization, is of God through the Holy Spirit. Whoever has received that has a Divine authority to preach, which is the highest, the only authority.

The World's Purity Congress.

In November last I received appointment as a delegate to the World's Purity Congress, which met in Minneapolis, November 7th to 12th. Although I hesitated because of pressure upon my time, I was afterward glad of the experience gained. There I made the acquaintance of some noble men and women who, so far as I could judge, are laying down their lives in fighting against sin, impurity, wrong, and to uplift humanity. Nearly all seemed to be having a considerable fight against the powers of darkness in their various fields of activity; and all seemed earnest, zealous, courageous and hopeful. Some labored as followers of Christ; others labored apparently merely from a humanitarian standpoint. But, I reflected, the Lord declared that there are but two masters: so I said to myself, As between God and mammon, these dear people seem to be seeking to serve God and to fight against mammon, against sin, against vice. They are on the Lord's side, whether they realize it or not.

You will be interested respecting the scope of that Congress, and the various fields of activity of the workers. The Congress did not discuss evils merely, but rather the good, and what must be accomplished in order to have the good prevail. I was pleased to notice that even when they discussed the immoral characters whose work they seek to overthrow, there was a proper spirit of moderation and an appreciation of what I have for years been trying to present; namely, that apparently much of the sin and vice in the world results from ignorance and superstition, and should not be accredited wholly to devilishness of intention. Nevertheless, we must all agree that whatever the inspiring motives, there are people whose vicious conduct can scarcely be characterized as other than wicked, sensual, devilish; and the Apostle Jude is our authority for using these terms.

The welfare of children was carefully discussed. It was demonstrated that in the families of the very poor, ideals of chastity are unknown. These children possess knowledge of sex matters beyond their years; and, mingling with others in the public schools, like an infectious plague they poison the moral atmosphere of the entire school, suggesting immoral practices to those whose parents have sought carefully to maintain their purity.

The parental duty of giving children proper conceptions of the sanctity of their bodies was set forth. The child needs, not large instruction, but simply confidence in the parent, and the information that its body is sacred, pure, holy, and belongs to God, and that whoever violates its sanctity sins against God. This much information should be given to the child before it enters the public school. Indeed, first lessons in vice are sometimes given in the kindergarten, notwithstanding the teacher's watchful eye. The child should have the assurance that the parent will give further instructions later on; and should have such confidence in the parent that it would be content to wait for the further information which every child's mind seeks regarding itself and its origin.

It was pointed out, however, that comparatively few parents know how to broach this subject in a profitable manner. Alas, what have our schools and churches done, or not done, for these fathers and mothers! If they had received useful information helpful to their lives, no doubt church attendance would be much larger than it is today. Are we to see young boys start in bad habits that will injure their health and that of their posterity? The answer is, No! Yet great care should be exercised that thorough sex instruction be not given too early, lest the very evil be encouraged which it was sought to guard against.

The age of thirteen to fifteen, according to the child's intelligence, seems to be the critical age when clear knowledge is quite necessary to save the child from the evil which has already overtaken so many. Statistics indicate that boys and girls are especially subject to temptation through ignorance between the years of thirteen and eighteen, when the forces of nature are breaking forth, just as trees bud in springtime. The parent who rules his child with loving intelligence rather than brute force should have the child's confidence at this age. The parents are the God-given instructors and protectors of their families. Nothing can excuse them from this, either church work or slum work, or even Bible study.

The Minimum of Wages.

It was brought out that five of our great states have already legislated on the subject of the minimum wage for female employees and of the hours during which they may be legally employed. Amongst these the three highest in appreciation seem to be Oregon, Iowa, and Minnesota, with evidences that the laws of the last named state represent the best features of all previous legislation on the subject.

The story of the battle to secure better regulations of vice and better hours and wages for female laborers was told in detail. In various ways the opponents of righteousness sought to circumvent the legislation so imperatively needed by the people whom they represented. And so far as we could learn, female suffrage and the active and intelligent labors of self-sacrificing women have been largely influential in effecting the rectification of the laws. We surely did rejoice in this. If the giving of the franchise to women shall mean better laws, more righteousness and purity in our nation, we surely all would agree that female suffrage could not come too soon.

Our thought heretofore has been that in God's order the family is a unit, of which the husband is the head; and that the votes of these heads should properly protect every family interest. There is another side to the question, however, well worthy of consideration; namely, the fact that sin has disordered all the affairs and interests of life. It may be that under the stress of present conditions no wiser thing could be done than to give the ballot to women. The most powerful argument to the contrary is the conduct of some extreme suffragettes who wait neither for God, order and time, nor for the ripening of human thought on the subject, but seem utterly reckless as respects life, property and principles of righteousness.

The White Slave Traffic.

Perhaps many of us have considered the expression "white slave traffic" a fiction of some over-zealous reformer; but not so. On the very best authority we learn that this immoral traffic has its agents and operatives in all parts of the civilized world. These operators control as a money-making arrangement approximately 88,000 women, reaping from their immoral traffic about $188,000,000 per year. These large profits enable them to exercise great influence at the polls and in the lower courts.

Although not a corporation, they cooperate with each other in all parts of Christendom. They are constantly on the lookout for recruits, as they are continually losing some through death, disease and the ravages of age; for as soon as these white slaves cease to be profitable to their owners they are dropped, and become the lowest of the low. They are generally obedient slaves, faithful to their masters, even to the extent of transfer from one to another. Many of them undoubtedly would die of despair or by suicide, were it not for the hope continually held out by their masters that soon sufficient money will be realized to justify them in settling down in a respectable little business.

The 88,000 regular slaves constitute only about one-half of the immoral women of this land who support themselves solely by immorality.

The great center of traffic appears to be eastern Germany and Austria. From there white slaves are shipped with considerable regularity in all directions—to South Africa, South America, and latterly to China. Goodly numbers are coming to the United States; but finding it difficult to escape the government inspection, they are mostly brought in by way of Canada. The audacity of these immoral traders is illustrated by the fact that one of their agents recently was found on a committee organized for the destruction of the vice. This man enthusiastically offered $250 for the conviction of white slaves. He was wealthy, had a son at college and a daughter completing her education in Europe.

Recent developments have shown that some high schools are deeply infected with vice, and every young woman, especially if attractive in appearance, is beset with dangerous pitfalls. The ignorance of the innocent respecting these things contributes to the success of the enemy. The unpreparedness of parents to do their duty seems to leave no alternative to the suggestion that sex hygiene must be taught in all grades of the high school and in the upper grades of the grammar school.

One of the most mortifying thoughts in connection with the entire matter is that there are men and women willing to sell themselves to such a vile business—to traffic in the morals of the young. The matter has gone so far that not merely on account of danger from consumptives, but also from those who have venereal diseases, drinking cups for general use are no longer permitted at public fountains. Indeed, authorities charged with responsibility for such matters are at their wits' end to know how to overtake the spread of venereal diseases and those which outcrop from them to the third and fourth generation.

Crusade in Every Heart and Home. Surely it is time that white slavery and every form of immoral traffic shall be rooted out. To these calls from the Purify Congress people who love righteousness and hate iniquity and love their fellow men should acquiesce; and many should join the crusaders against vice in its many forms.

I speak today from a personal standpoint, and call for a crusade in your own heart, and in your own home, if you are parents. Do not allow false delicacy or the fear of being considered a prude to hinder you from doing your duty—opposing everything in sympathy with vice. At the Congress it was clearly demonstrated that one of the serious tendencies of our time is what is termed "spooning."

Every Christian desiring the Lord's approval, and hoping eventually to hear His "Well done," should determine today that he will take a more active part in opposing vice, especially within his own home, and particularly in his own mind. God wants resolute Christians—overcomers. Our minds must be loyal to the Lord, to Truth and to Purity, and our bodies must be brought in as close harmony with these renewed minds as possible.

I am not urging you to give all your time toward moral reforms, nor so intending to do myself. According to our view, there is a still greater work than that of moral reform, good though that work be. The greater work is the one in which you and I are engaged, by the grace of God. We are preaching the Gospel, for the purpose of gathering out the Bride class, in order that, the Church being completed, the glorious Millennial Reign of Jesus and His Church may begin. In that glorified spiritual Kingdom of God we see the only hope of effectually, thoroughly, stamping out the social evil and every other evil, born of selfishness and sin, and associated with the present reign of Sin and Death.

We do not believe that present institutions will be able to accomplish the laudable desires for which we praise them. They will, we trust, however, be able to accomplish further good; and we take pleasure in bidding them Godspeed. The speaker would certainly be with them, heart and hand, in the battle against vice and for civic and moral uplift, purity, were it not that we have the still higher commission of finding the members of the Bride class and helping to prepare them for the effectual suppression of vice and the establishment of the Reign of Righteousness, even though from outward appearance not all may be able to perceive our relationship toward these noble co-laborers who are seeking their victories now.

Let us all, dear brethren, put on the whole armor of God, and be first pure, fighting against sin of every kind as we have opportunity, but especially serving the Household of Faith, as directed in the Lord's Word. Let us not give the impression to others that we are careless of their work and of the interests of the present time. Let us have a word of encouragement for them, and a hearty grasp of the hand; and if time permit let us be ready to do them good, in whatever way will not conflict with our higher opportunities of doing good to the Household of Faith. "Let not your good be evil spoken of." Take heed lest through your failure to express sympathy any should mistake you for an opponent of righteousness, truth, purity, loyalty to God and all the interests of His cause, great and small.

Human Procession

Philadelphia was the place, and fifty-seven years ago today the date, of the earthly premiere of David Bismpham, the renowned grand opera baritone. Mr. Bismpham may claim to be a real native son of the City of Brotherly Love, for his ancestors for several generations back were Philadelphia Quakers. His father, although he practiced law for a living, was passionately devoted to music, and was especially fond of playing the flute. It is asserted that William Danforth Bismpham could play the flute so well that none of the neighbors ever objected, which is the supreme test of musical ability.

Little David Soull Bismpham was only knee-high to a grasshopper—when he began to manifest musical inclinations. In a short time he mastered the guitar and was able to accompany his father's flute. At nineteen he graduated from Haverford College, receiving the degree of B. A. which, in the light of subsequent events, may be translated to mean able baritone. At Haverford he was the leader of the glee club, and everybody said that he had the "makings" of a great singer. David didn't believe them, at the time, and

Henrietta Crossman in "The Tongues of Men."

Henrietta Crossman and "The Tongues of Men" will be the attraction at Auditorium, Friday, January 9. Henrietta Crossman is always a success. Her plays have been good and bad in the past, but in "The Tongues of Men" she is said to have the best play she has ever had in many seasons.

To a man the New York critics were loud in their praises of Miss Crossman in this play and of the play they spoke in the highest terms. "The Tongues of Men" is a brightly written comedy with enough of the drama behind it to make one think. It affords an excellent entertainment and while starting off as a serious play it soon begins to create mirth and the last is received with hilarity.

The ordinary company and production as in Manhattan will come to Newark with Miss Crossman. The cast includes Frank Gilmore, Benton Grace, Homer Granville, Edward See, Laura Geloray, Katherine Preshey, Sheridan Block, Paul Dousset and Mary Mitmann.

Peck's Bad Boy.

"Peck's Bad Boy," which is to be presented at the Auditorium Saturday matinee and night, is one of the most human stories which has ever been offered on the stage. The play's story—meagre as it is—concerns such an American boy as is to be found in any hamlet, village, town or city in this country. It shows this typical American boy at the pranks which every boy of his age has played upon those with whom he comes in contact. The "Bad Boy" has for his companions a Chum and his best girl, and this trio make things very interesting for the "Bad Boy's" father, his mother, and the man who runs the corner grocery store.

doah valley, extending throughout the length of the state of Virginia, from the Maryland line southward, between the Allegheny and Blue Ridge mountains, offers a rare opportunity for successful growing of all the grains and grasses.

The valley extends to a width of fifty miles in many places, and the broad expanse of farming land constituting the valley is productive of the best quality of clover, wheat, oats, rye, barley, timothy. This is pre-eminently a grass section. The limestone soil composition adds a vital quality to the products which figures strongly in the raising of great herds of cattle for which the Eastern markets have an almost insatiable demand.

This valley comprises the present great fruit growing section of the state. It is from here that the bulk of Virginia fruit is shipped to the markets of the East and even to those of Europe.

Southwestern Virginia is the natural blue grass region. From this territory alone 4,000 carloads of cattle were shipped to the Eastern markets over one railroad last year, the largest part of which was exported. These cattle are fattened in the fields on the natural grasses. No grain is fed. In this section are blue grass sods that have not been touched by a plow in half a century, which are being grazed every year.

Virginia is rich in alfalfa. It was introduced in the valley by a western man, "Captain Jack," who has established an 800-acre alfalfa farm at Port Conway, Va., which yields an income of $30,000 to $40,000 annually.

The great soil improvers common to the state are Soja beans and cow peas, both raised in large quantities, and all of the clovers.

Virginia wheat has long had the preference of skilled millers, because of the richer flavor it is allowed to attain by reason of the long growing season. An excellent grade of wheat is raised in the foothills and in the valleys, and intelligent farming brings crops of from twenty to forty bushels per acre.

Limestone, used as a soil invigorator, is shipped in at an extremely low rate.

With its natural resources for successful agriculture, and its wonderful store of historic associations and beautiful scenery, Virginia, and its southern neighbor, North Carolina, as well, affords an ideal home country.

Natural bridge, Luray cavern, and the Grottoes, are spots of interest of world-wide fame.

The Arcade display offers striking first-hand examples of the advantages of the territory, and it is well worth inspection.

GEO. W. HORTON DIES SUNDAY OF HEART TROUBLE

George W. Horton, late deputy state oil inspector, and a well known Democrat, died Sunday morning at 10 o'clock at his home in Franklin Heights, after an illness of nearly two years' duration. His death was due to chronic heart trouble, an affliction which brought him several times close to death's portals. While his death was not entirely unexpected, the announcement of his passing caused a distinct shock to his many friends in the city and county.

His last illness began early last November, in fact the day after election. He was able to go to the polls and cast his ballot though he was quite ill at the time. He returned to his home and was compelled to go to bed. He continued to grow worse until death relieved his sufferings.

Mr. Horton was born 53 years ago on a farm in Newton township, near St. Louis. He was a son of the late Robert E. Horton, who was also a prominent Democrat and a county office holder. He was educated in the district schools of Newton township and attended a normal school at Utica. In later years he taught school in various parts of the county.

Early in his manhood, he began taking interest in political matters and took active part in the campaigns of the early nineties. When J. H. Newton was appointed postmaster during President Cleveland's second term, Mr. Horton was named assistant postmaster. He served in this capacity throughout Mr. Newton's term and was soon afterwards named court bailiff. Later he served as deputy sheriff under Sheriff William Anderson. About 1896 he was elected sheriff and served two terms. On January 22, 1909, he was appointed justice of the peace of Newark township to succeed M. O. Nash, and after serving this appointive term, he was elected to the office, the full term lacking a few months when he resigned to accept the position of deputy state oil inspector, which position had been filled by his nephew, R. O. Horton. He performed the duties of this office for about a month, when he was stricken with what proved to be his last illness.

For a number of years, Mr. Horton was allied with the Democratic organizations in the county, and was at the time of his death president of the Licking Democratic club and vice chairman of the Democratic executive committee. He was also treasurer of the Licking County Board of Agriculture.

In 1901 he was united in marriage to Fannie Vogel of Zanesville, who survives, with two brothers and three sisters. They are James E. Horton of Newark, Basil M. Horton of St. Louisville, Miss Linda Horton of St. Louisville, Mrs. Maggie Hall of Utica, and Mrs. Mary Bener of Newark. His mother died less than a year ago at the age of 80 years.

Mr. Horton was a member of Newark Lodge, No. 13, Knights of Pythias, the Independent Order of Odd Fellows of Utica, and the Red Men of Newark. He was also a member of the Lutheran church.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock at the Lutheran church, First street and Sherwood Court, Rev. G. Bohon Schmitt officiating. Interment will be made at Cedar Hill cemetery.

NEAT PAMPHLET ISSUED BY THE BOARD OF TRADE

In a neat thirty-one-page pamphlet entitled "City Building and Citizenship," and just issued by Manager W. C. Wakefield of the Newark board of trade, the public is informed as to the plan of action outlined by the organization under its new system of operation. Couched in a collection of trite truisms, the little booklet explains, first the plan, purpose and policy of the board of trade, then describes commercial government, financing of a trade body, and an explanation of the desires of the board of trade. How funds are to be derived and to what use they will be put, are subjects given especial attention. In this connection, the pamphlet makes clear the board's policy with reference to the resolution creating an industrial fund.

The pamphlet contains lists of the officers and certain committees, and the names of the entire membership of the board.

JACKSONVILLE ELDER

Writes Characteristic Letter Regarding Loss of Appetite.

He says: "Vinol is just the thing. For summer, winter, fall or spring. Follow directions, take it right. It will save your lagging appetite."

"I know for I have tried it. For weeks I could scarcely eat enough to keep a snake alive. I have taken three bottles of Vinol and now it feels like I will eat my head off. I am at the table three times a day eating as I did in the good old days when I split rails, dug wells, topped trees, plowed corn and hoed cotton. Try Vinol and see how good it feels to be real hungry."

When you ought to be hungry and are not it is because your stomach does not feel strong enough to ask for food—a sure sign of impaired general health. Better than dosing the stomach with poison for temporary relief is taking Vinol, our delicious tonic, which has the strengthening and blood-making power of iron, and the building-up value of cod liver oil. It quickly restores appetite and perfect digestion. If Vinol does not help you it costs you nothing. Frank D. Hall, Druggist, Newark, O.

MORTONS RESUME THEIR RESIDENCE IN WASHINGTON

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)

Washington, Jan. 5.—Former Vice-President and Mrs. Morton have resumed their residence in Washington, occupying the house at 1500 Rhode Island avenue, which was a center of official and social activity during the Harrison and Morton administration. As presiding officer of the Senate at that time Mr. Morton played an important part in the congressional struggles of that day, including the delicate issues which arose over the movement to pass the so-called "force bill."

Since leaving Washington Mr. Morton and his family have lived in New York and at their extensive summer home on the Hudson and have spent much time abroad.

The population of the United States contains 3,300,000 more males than females.

The government of New South Wales has placed orders for 80 new locomotives for the state railways.
